£ 1.6 million – electrical project

I am pleased to commend The Rosebery Group for carrying out the design, co-ordination and installation of electrical services on the recently completed project for Hella Manufacturing UK Ltd. near Banbury. The project involved the building of a new hi-tech industrial facility to manufacture headlamp assemblies and components for the motor industry. Incorporated into the scheme were clean rooms, specialist production facilities, assembly areas, storage areas, offices, canteen and kitchen. The electrical design service and co-ordination was outstanding and contributed greatly to the team approach that developed with the client and, more importantly, their German advisors.

Installation work was planned and organised effectively, efficiently and on time, with a co-operative attitude throughout. Rosebery's role was a key element to the success of the project, and they were a pleasure to work with. I have no hesitation recommending The Rosebery Group as a first class subcontractor
